FAIA, Design Director
Gensler

Roger Sherman, FAIA, is a Design Director and leader in Gensler Los Angeles' Permanent Supportive Housing (PSH) and urban impact-related initiatives. His projects range from an infrastructure and urban development plan for Northern Haiti, to a rebuild of a camp destroyed in the recent Malibu fire, to work in L.A.'s most underserved communities, including an at-risk teen center and numerous supportive and affordable housing and mixed-use projects in South LA. Roger founded Roger Sherman Architecture and Urban

Design and is the former Co-Director of cityLAB, an urban design thinktank at UCLA, where he is Adjunct Professor. His work has been published in Newsweek, Fast Company, CNN and The History Channel, and exhibited at the Rotterdam and Venice Biennales. A Senior Fellow at both the Global Cities Institute at the University of Toronto and the NewCities Foundation, Sherman has authored three books, including LA Under the Influence: The Hidden Logic of Urban Property, and has taught and lectured widely including at New York's MoMA and TEDx. Roger is a graduate with distinction from the Harvard Graduate School of Design.
